

Playing God in the Hospital (Podcast)

September 14, 2012 | Poetry [1]

By Richard M. Berlin, MD [2]

His pager calls. Code Blue. And for no reason at all, he lifts the window and blows a little life back into the world.

Playing God in the Hospital
Playing God in the Hospital

Subscribe to our podcasts

A fly buzzes
black complaints at the glass.

Drawn by sunlight
reflected off snow,
it's trapped

without design
to know another way.
My pager calls

Code Blue.
And for no reason
at all

I lift the window and blow a little life back into the world.

For more on this poem, click here.

Source URL: <http://www.psychiatrictimes.com/poetry/playing-god-hospital-podcast>

Links:

[1] <http://www.psychiatrictimes.com/poetry>

[2] <http://www.psychiatrictimes.com/authors/richard-m-berlin-md>